our personal relationship with Jesus, Your Son.

Today, in some countries, we celebrate Father’s Day. The Gospel reading of the day is very apt for this celebration. We are human beings. Among the great gifts that God has bestowed upon us is the gift of our five senses. Through our senses we experience this world around us. To a large extent, it is through our parent’s unconditional love that we comprehend and appreciate the love of God.

IY & Carmelite Chaplain: Fr. Rayner Blius

Who do you say I am? The provocative question of Jesus still resounds today. For people, he is not an absolute novelty; he is only one among the great men of the past (Elijah, the prophets, the Baptist). Only Peter responds adequately: the Anointed One of God. However, Jesus states that the Messiah will not come in a triumphal way but will open the way to the outpouring of life. The disciple is called to follow him in this way of the cross, which in Luke’s version, entails carrying of the cross every day. Commitment to Christ involves constant daily fidelity and perseverance.
